

The Georgia Institute of Technology Laboratory Safety Manual is currently undergoing a comprehensive review and update to ensure accuracy, clarity, and alignment with current regulatory requirements and Institute practices.

During this revision period, laboratory personnel are expected to continue complying with all applicable Georgia Tech Environmental Health and Safety policies, procedures, training requirements, and applicable federal, state, and local regulations.

For questions regarding laboratory safety requirements or guidance for specific activities, contact Georgia Tech Environmental Health and Safety Lab & Chemical Safety at lab-chemsafety@gatech.edu.

Updated sections will be posted as they are finalized.